

Kenneth Walker is a Colorectal / General Surgeon in Inverness, with an interest in Surgical Training. He graduated from Aberdeen, trained in Glasgow and Sydney, adding a research MD and a 2 year post in Nepal. Ken realised an ambition to work in Inverness from 2004.

Education roles:-

- Associate Postgraduate Dean 2010-2014.
- Co-director, Scottish Surgical Boot Camps.
- Chair, Scottish Surgical Simulation Collaborative 2012-2016.
- Honorary chair in Highland Academic Surgical Unit Inverness. Current research: (i) incentivising laparoscopy simulator practice, (ii) adapting “cued-recall-debrief” from astronaut training to medicine.
- Faculty on courses: Non-technical Skills for Surgeons (RCSEd), Simulation-based Education for Surgeons (RCPSG & RCSEd), laparoscopic colorectal surgery (Cuschieri Skills Centre).
- Collaborating in Middle East, Nepal, Myanmar.
- Fellow, Faculty of Surgical Trainers of Edinburgh.

Ken’s wife is an artist; they have three children. He enjoys considerable mediocrity in cycling, fiddling and ski-ing.